

 African Studies Association of Ireland

presents a lecture by

Dr. Rashmi Varma

Department of English, University of Warwick

“Different Belongings”

How Globalization and the Global War on Terror are Changing the Contours of Gendered Belonging in Nairobi and Other Global Cities Today

Sponsored by WERRC,
the Women’s Education Research & Resource Centre, UCD

Dr. Rashmi Varma joined the English and Comparative Literary Studies Department at Warwick in January 2004. She is revising her book manuscript Unhomely Women: the Postcolonial City and its Subjects for Duke University Press and co-editing the McGraw Hill Anthology of Women Writing Globally in English. Her most recent publications include: "Provincializing the Global City: from Bombay to Mumbai" (Social Text, winter 2004); "Untimely Letters: Edward Said and the Politics of the Present" (Politics and Culture, January 2004) and "Fictions of Development" (essay in Amitava Kumar ed. World Bank Literature, University of Minnesota Press, 2002). Her essay "On Common Ground?: Critical Race Studies and Feminist Theory" is forthcoming in The Cambridge Companion to Feminist Theory, ed. Ellen Rooney (2005).

Thursday, 20th April 2006, 6.00-8.00 p.m.
Rm. 201, WERRC, Hannah Sheehy-Skeffington Building
(formerly Arts Annexe Building), UCD, Belfield.
Free Admission

Further Inquiries: tel: +353 1 716 8571 353; email: werrc@ucd.ie

For map of UCD Belfield campus <http://www.ucd.ie/maps/campusmap.jpg>

For information on travel to UCD visit <http://www.ucd.ie/trans.htm>